The Commissioners explained that the General Fund Budget is down $100,000 from 2003, insurance costs have risen, and local government funds have been slashed. Vote: C. Dodrill, yea                      B. Dozer, yea                      R. Moore, yea

Discussion concerning the Countrytyme Subdivision involved Jeff McInturf from the engineer's office sharing documents from the Morgan Co. Health Department stating that septic regulations cover the individual lot acreage. Also, a document that states a Phase I Environmental Assessment had been done revealing “no evidence of recognized adverse environmental connections.” Commissioners stated that the subdivision would be signed with reluctance, and they sympathize with the neighbors who had concerns about the future of the area. Some of these concerns were improper installation of septic, the presence of dilapidated trailers, and junk vehicles. The Commissioners felt that they had no legal authority to deny the subdivision as requested.
