Jeff Babcock, It Administrator

-This past week saw a major cybersecurity attack against a popular network monitoring software suite from Solar Winds. Fortunately, the County does not utilize Solar Winds products on any of its networks. The Secretary of State does use this software and sent a flurry of advisories to the Board of Elections regarding the attack.

Due to all the recent COVID-related supply orders, the County has exceeded its line of credit on Amazon and will have to wait for payments to be applied before ordering can resume.

The December Zanesville – Muskingum Safety Council meeting was held virtually again this week. The topic of discussion was machine guards and emergency stop equipment in a manufacturing environment.

With the installation of a camera system in the back parking lot of the Riecker Building, there are now five different camera systems in use in the Riecker Building. The IT Director has started researching options for consolidating the assorted camera systems onto one server.
